Raging Fire Destroys Bertrand Mill, Elevator

$200,000 Damage Estimated

30,000 Bushels Of Wheat Lost

Lincoln Star Special
BERTRAND, Neb.—A spectacular fire which raged out of control for almost eight hours Sunday completely destroyed the Bertrand flour mill and elevator. The elevator contained about 30,000 bushels of wheat and the building was valued at $200,000.

The fire was discovered about 11 p.m. Saturday and brought under control Sunday morning. Firemen continued to watch the smoldering ruins through Sunday afternoon and evening.

The elevator, which had formerly been used as a flour mill, was in the process of being remodeled to add another 60,000 bushel bin capacity to its 100,000 bushel capacity. The fire, of unknown origin, was believed to have started in the section being renovated.

Largest elevator in Bertrand, the building was constructed in the 1890s.

Don Minton, manager of the elevator for the B. C. Christopher Company of Kansas City, was out of town at the time of the fire.

Nearly 60 firemen from the Bertrand and Loomis fire companies fought the blaze.

Woman Dies From Wound; Found In Car

A 28-year-old Lincoln woman who apparently shot herself was found about 10:30 a.m. Sunday in her car at 76th & Vine and died about 12:30 p.m. at a local hospital, the sheriff's office reported.

Mrs. Raymond Streily Jr., 3340 N. 67th, was found by three men who drove past her car on the gravel county road where the nearest house is about a quarter of a mile away.

A .22 pistol had been fired once into the left forehead, the investigating officers said. A receipt for the purchase of the pistol, dated last Friday, was found in her purse.

Notes addressed to her husband one on the seat of the car and two more in her purse, indicated she was "despondent." Sheriff Merle Karnopp said.

Mrs. Streily had a daughter since the birth of a daughter two months ago, Karnopp said. The couple have another daughter a little over a year old.

The Streilys have lived in Lincoln about a year, coming here from Pittsburgh. They returned last Wednesday from a visit to Pittsburgh, where Mrs. Streily's parents live.

Mrs. Streily was a member of St. Patrick's Church.

Surviving besides her husband and daughter are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Kerins of Pittsburgh; sisters, Mrs. W. A. Vernal and Mrs. J. F. Peterson, and a brother, Francis Gerard Kerins.

Services will be at St. Agnes' Church in Pittsburgh. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery there.

Heavy Rain Brings High Water To Residential Area

Heavy rains in Lincoln Sunday sent residents of the 52nd and South Streets area scurrying around in an attempt to keep their basements dry. The kids, on the other hand (center), had a field day wading in the swift-running rainwater. In the photo

Excusing 2 Stars Proposed

—Joe Vs. Army—
Carr And Hensel May Be Absolved

WASHINGTON (INS) — A Senate Investigations Subcommittee member said Sunday — on the eve of the reopening of the powderkeg McCarthy-Army televised hearings—that a move is under consideration to absolve two "principals" in the dispute.

Sen. Henry C. Dworsak (R-Iowa), reported it has been proposed that Assistant Defense Secretary H. Struve Hensel and McCarthy's staff director Francis P. Carr be excused from testifying in the controversy to speed up the investigation.

As the final phase of the probe was set to get underway, McCarthy indicated plainly that he will fight to the finish despite what he calls a "stacked deck" against him. The Wisconsin Republican also declared his intention of taking the witness stand.

Dworsak emphasized that "nothing definite" has been decided on dropping Hensel or Carr from the case but added if such a decision is made, none of the "principal" charges and countercharges involved in the McCarthy-Army clash would be neglected.

The Idaho Republican said the subcommittee has discussed the possibility of winding up the hearings after hearing the final Army witnesses, then calling McCarthy and his chief investigator, Roy M. Cohn.

However, Rep. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.), asserted he has heard nothing about such a move and made it clear the Democrats will oppose the proposal if it is offered.

When the subcommittee resumes public hearings on the "who lied" dispute at 8 a.m., CST, two explosive issues are expected to be aired when acting chairman Karl E. Mundt (R-SD) calls the session to order, ending a one-week recess.

They are:

President Eisenhower's directive banning testimony about a secret, top drawer conference last Jan. 21, at which McCarthy asserts, strategy was planned for what he labels a "smear" attack launched against him by the Army's civilian bosses.

Transcripts of monitored telephone calls involving the case of Pvt. G. David Schine, the multi-millionaire draftee in whose behalf Pentagon officials say McCarthy and his aids, Roy M. Cohn and Francis P. Carr, "perverted" the power of the committee the Wisconsin senator heads.

By the Associated Press
Seven persons died as a result of auto accidents in Iowa Sunday, a seventh drowned when a small boat tipped over in a Fairfield reservoir, and an eighth died while hunting squirrels.

The victims of auto accidents: Mrs. Mary Wernick of Clinton, Carroll A. Bankert, 24, of Des Moines.

Barbara Moore, 17, of Marshalltown.

Ronald Knautz, 18, of Galena, Ill.

Francis Meyers, 34, of Council Bluffs.

James A. Stephens, 19, of Honey Creek.

Mrs. Helen D. Bricker, 39, of Des Moines.

The drowning victim: Donald Pottorff of Fairfield.

The hunting victim: Peter Walters, 66, of Independence.

Car Hits, Kills Girl

Lancaster-Seward Line Accident Fatal

Lincoln Star Special
SEWARD — A seven-year-old Seward County farm girl was killed Sunday night when she was struck by a car 1.8 miles north of Highway 34 on the Seward-Lancaster County line.

Delores Darlene Schildt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Schildt, was crossing the road which divides the counties and adjoins the Schildt farm, when she was struck by a car driven by Robert Schulz, a Seward County farmer, investigators said.

Sheriff Ray Welch of Seward County and Deputy Sheriff Mark Meyers of Lancaster County investigated the accident jointly. It was decided by the officers that the accident occurred in Seward County because Schulz was on the north side of the road when the girl was hit.

Sheriff Welch said the little girl was standing beside the road with some playmates when she darted into the road. Schulz was unable to stop or miss the girl because of the muddy condition of the road, the sheriff said. He was not able to see the youngster until he came over a hill a short distance from where she was standing, he told the sheriff.

At the time of the accident was placed at about 7:30 p.m. Sheriff Welch indicated that no charges would be filed.

This accident brought the total 1954 highway fatality toll to 114, compared to 76 this time last year.

Omaha Centennial Off To Dry Start

OMAHA (AP) — The weatherman co-operated and the dedication of Omaha's Centennial Theme Center went off as scheduled Sunday night at Turner Park.

An estimated 9,000 persons turned out for the dedication, which took place under clear skies following a soaking afternoon rain.

The lighting of the 100 candles on the giant cake and the singing of "Happy Birthday" to Omaha by the audience officially opened the Centennial season here.

Dr. Roblee Accepts Call To Westminster Church

Michigan Pastor Assumes Lincoln Charge Sept. 1

Dr. Frederick Andrew Roblee wired his acceptance as pastor Sunday to a unanimous call by the congregation of Westminster Presbyterian Church.

The congregation issued the call at Sunday morning services following the unanimous recommendation of the pulp committee and Session of the church.

Dr. Roblee, 45, has served as pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Bay City, Mich., since 1939. He will assume his new pastorate Sept. 1. He succeeds the Rev. John Douglas Clyde who left the church in February to accept a position with the Board of Christian Education of the Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia, Pa.

A native of St. Louis, Mo., Dr. Roblee received his early education there. He was granted his A.B. degree from Washington University in St. Louis in 1929.

He received his Bachelor of Divinity degree from McCormack Theological Seminary in Chicago in 1932. At that time he won the Bernadine Orme Smith Fellowship for further study.

Magna Cum Laude Degree
The following year, he received his Master of Sacred Theology degree, magna cum laude, from Union Theological Seminary in New York City. He was granted the Doctor of Divinity degree in 1939 by the University of Duquesne, Pa.

Dr. Roblee was ordained as a minister of the Presbyterian Church, U.S.A., by the Presbytery of St. Louis on May 4, 1932. He served as pastor of Peters Memorial Presbyterian Church in St. Louis from 1933 to 1939.

Under his leadership at the Bay City church, membership has shown a net increase of 700 and the budget has been increased from $14,000 to $36,000.

Outstanding As Leader
Dr. Roblee has served as moderator of the Presbytery of Saginaw and the Synod of Michigan. He has been chairman of the Synod's committee on social action and a member of the Synod's committee on ministerial relations.

He is instrumental in the formation of the Bay County Council of Churches of which he is a past president. He also served as vice president of the Michigan Council of Churches.

A member of the Presbyterian committee on radio and television, Dr. Roblee has conducted his own radio program in Bay City for nine years.

He is a Rotarian, a 32nd Degree Scottish Rite Mason and a member of the Saginaw Valley Torch Club.

Dr. Roblee married the former Grace E. Gordon of St. Louis in 1936. They have one daughter, Grace Jean, who is completing her sophomore year in high school. Mrs. Roblee's mother also makes her home with them.

Mrs. Roblee is past president of the Michigan Synodical. She will be one of the leaders at the Quadrennial Meeting of Presbyterian Women to be held this summer at Purdue University.

She has been a member of the board of directors of the Bay City YWCA for six years.

To Preach Here June 20
Under tentative plans, Dr. Roblee will preach at Westminster on June 20. They will not move to Lincoln until about Sept. 1.

Dr. Asa Ferry, who has been serving as interim pastor, will conclude his services at the end of June. The associate pastors, the Rev. Calvin Ukema and the Rev. Robert Laird, will continue on the staff.

Members of the pulp committee of Westminster who were instrumental in the selection of Dr. Roblee were Earl Luff, chairman; L. R. Ricketts, Gerald Brownfield, Mrs. Ray Middlekauff and Mrs. Clark Jeary.

Number Of U.S. Citizens Over 65 Expected To Grow

CHICAGO (AP)—Barring catastrophe, there will be in the United States at least 16 million persons aged 65 and over by 1960 and 19 million a decade later, a sociologist forecast Sunday.

Presently there are more than 12 million in that age group.

Sociologist T. Lynn Smith of the University of Florida said these figures might even be considerably higher if there are any "spectacular medical developments that sharply cut mortality rates among the older population."

Crash At Omaha Kills Two

Five Injured, One Seriously

OMAHA (AP)—Two persons were killed and five hurt Sunday afternoon in a two-car crash during a blinding rainstorm a mile west of the Elkhorn River bridge on Highway 30, west of Omaha.

The dead were identified as: Mrs. Stella Murphy, about 50, of Omaha.

Jean Marie Steckman, 8, Omaha.

Injured were: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Steckman, parents of the dead girl.

Fred Hug, 34, Omaha.

Donald E. White, 39, Omaha.

Mrs. Lucille R. Ralio, 42, Omaha.

Highway Patrolman Duane Nichols of Valley said the westbound Steckman car, driven by Steckman, apparently went out of control on the wet pavement and skidded sideways into the eastbound White car.

Mrs. Ralio was a passenger in the White car. The others were riding with Steckman. Nichols expressed belief White and Mrs. Ralio were returning from a fishing trip. Their car contained fishing gear.

Mrs. Ralio was listed in critical condition Sunday night. The others were reported to be in "pretty good" condition.

'United Action' Reviewed

Churchill Calls Cabinet Session

By ARTHUR GAVSHON
LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Churchill hurriedly summoned his cabinet into a special session Monday. Informed sources said the government would consider again whether to join in taking united action against Communists in Indo-China should the Geneva peace talks fail.

British sources made it clear the problem of supporting any projected united action was but one aspect of several issues which the cabinet would consider. The government leaders will undertake a full scale review of Britain's position in the Far East crisis as diplomatic and military events move toward a climax.

Up to now it has been the British Southeast Asian policy, as stated by Churchill in Parliament, that this country would undertake "no new commitments before results at Geneva are known."

Advantages Accrue
But the longer the Geneva talks go on without any conclusive result, the greater advantages accrue to the Communists, who already are improving their military position in Indo-China. So now the question posed to the British is whether they should set a time limit to their "wait and see" policy.

The nation's air, sea and land military chiefs are expected to take part in Monday's cabinet session, at which Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden will give a first hand assessment of peace prospects. Eden flew to London Saturday and is scheduled to return to Geneva after the cabinet meeting. He conferred Sunday with Churchill and Marquess Salisbury, lord president of the council, at the Prime Minister's summer home at Chequers.

INDIAN OPENS TALKS
GENEVA (AP)—Uninvited but eager, a potential Indian mediator opened talks with East and West here as participants in the Geneva conference neared a showdown on the eight-year-long conflict in Indo-China.

Acting as special envoy for Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, Krishna Menon, India's delegate to the United Nations, brought to the conference scene his government's suggestion that both the Korea and Indo-China problems should be settled through some form of coalition or federation of opposing regimes.

With the first practical discussion of an Indo-China settlement coming up, Western sources said this week would show whether the Communists mean business, or are merely stalling for new military gains in the field.

Wahoo Reports 3 Inches

City's Unofficial Rainfall Is 1.60

Partly cloudy skies and cooler temperatures are scheduled for Nebraska Monday following a weekend of heavy rains which drenched much of the state and damaged crops in some areas.

The eastern portion of the state received the brunt of deluge Sunday, while the west was treated to downpours earlier.

Rains ranged from 1.60 in parts of Lincoln and Omaha to light showers in Seward, Plattsmouth and Beatrice.

Hardest hit by the downpour was an area about three miles east of Wahoo. From two and a half to three inches of rain were reported to have fallen within a period of 15 or 20 minutes. Fields were under water and there was extensive crop damage.

Some hail accompanied the cloudburst but no damage was reported from the hail. The stricken area did not extend as far east as Mead.

Total Values
Rainfall in Lincoln itself varied from about an inch at the airport to unofficial reports of 1.50 in eastern Lincoln and 1.60 in Havelock.

Basements in the area just off South 52nd and near 65th and Logan were flooded. Streets were more than curbed of water during the flash storm.

Antelope Creek was nearly bankfull. The Sanitary District Disposal Plant and Salt Creek was a little higher than usual. A reading of 3.6 feet was reported at 3 p.m. By 5 p.m., the creek was down to 2.8. However the water level must rise to 2.5 before any trouble is caused.

About 1.50 inches was reported in the Davey and Panama areas.

Low Areas
Water was running through the fields and standing in low areas but very little damage was done.

The storm passed through the state from northwest to southeast. The pattern of the rain area was noticeable in Omaha as points on the western side of town reported 1.65 while the Omaha airport had only .22.

Scores of Omahans reported water in their basements and for a time traffic was slowed as runoff water from the hills ripped down the streets. The showers were lighter in downtown Omaha, the Associated Press said.

In western Nebraska, farmers Sunday surveyed damage from rain and hail which fell west of Scottsbluff and south of Gering Saturday afternoon.

In a 25 square mile area, centered 3 1/2 miles south of Gering with the degree of damage tapering outward, farmers figured first cuttings of alfalfa were lost, but second cuttings and corn stands could be saved with additional cultivation. The washing condition that followed the rains hurt corn fields the most.

Silted Fields
West of Scottsbluff, in the Haig area, hail was lighter, with the damage coming mostly in the form of silted fields.

Typical was the farm of LeRoy Reicher, who said: "It will take an extra week of work to get the fields back in shape. Loss is in time and labor."

In the vicinity of the Reicher farm, 7 miles west of Scottsbluff on Highway 87, the approach to a county bridge was washed out by the overflow from an irrigation ditch.

The Monday forecast calls for partly cloudy skies during the day and fair skies during the night. Cooler temperatures are on tap for the east during the day and night. Highs Monday are expected to range in the 60s.

Unofficial rainfall reports as gathered by The Lincoln Star:

Location	Rainfall
Omaha	1.65
Beatrice	.22
Plattsmouth	1.30
Lincoln	1.50
Scottsbluff	.75
Lincoln airport	.22
Lincoln	1.30
Wahoo	.75
Waverly	1.30
Wilder	.75
Mead	1.25

Weather Bureau readings for the 24-hour period ending at 6 a.m. Sunday indicated:

Location	Temp	Wind	Clouds
Burlington	30	Northeast	13
Chadron	20	Southwest	103
Grand Island	44	Southeast	21
Lexington	.01	Valentine	.01

India's Temperatures Soar To 'Boiling' 111

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—India's capital city boiled in a heat wave Sunday as the temperature climbed above 110 degrees for the fifth consecutive day. Sunday's reading of 114 degrees was surpassed only by Thursday's 112. The weather man said there is more and worse to come.

Stassen Backs Up Trade Plan

U.S. Aid Chief Takes Verbal Poke At Joe

WASHINGTON (AP)—Foreign Aid Chief Harold E. Stassen announced the free world has benefited from its limited trade with Iron Curtain countries, and "we will take a firm position to keep the facts straight."

Referring directly in a radio-TV interview to a Senate speech last week by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) and to his own answer to McCarthy, Stassen said "we do not intend to let the facts be twisted in any way."

Asked whether this indicated a general decision on the part of the Eisenhower administration to get tough with McCarthy, Stassen said he would speak only for his own department.

There was no necessity for him to clear his own remarks last week with the White House, he said, adding "I took a few words to set the record straight."

McCarthy told the Senate last week that with the possibility of American intervention in Indo-China, "it is criminal folly to give money to Allies who are shipping the sinews of military and economic strength to our enemies." He called on Congress to "bring honor out of dishonor" by halting Allied trade with Red China.

Stassen fired back a statement that McCarthy's charges were "fantastic, unbelievable and untrue," adding:

"We are steadily building for peace under President Eisenhower's leadership, while Sen. McCarthy is frantically reaching for diversionary headlines after the sorry spectacle of his record in recent hearings."—an obvious reference to the McCarthy-Army hearings before a Senate subcommittee.

Stassen said the free world nations are living up to their agreement not to ship strategic goods behind the Iron Curtain and contended there has been a net gain to the free world from the trade in what he called "peaceful" goods. While the standard of living has improved in these countries, he said, that behind the Iron Curtain has declined, and Russia had to sell good last year to get materials it needed.

To follow McCarthy's idea of cutting off all such trade, he said, would be in effect to "have America stand all alone . . . and a third world war would become more and more inevitable."

Concordia Coed Falls From Car, Gets Broken Leg

Ruth Hermes, 18, of Arapahoe received a broken leg when she fell off the car in which she was riding in Pioneer's Park Sunday afternoon.

The Concordia Teacher's College coed told Motor Officer Ray Gillespie, who investigated the mishap, that she was riding on the fender of a car driven by Lowell Hummel, also a student at the Seward school. When Hummel slowed to miss a waterhole, Gillespie said, Miss Hermes slid from the fender into the path of the auto.

At St. Elizabeth's Hospital, where she was taken for treatment, she was reported suffering from a fracture of the upper left leg, cuts and bruises.

Disturbance Quelled—Culprit Dead

Police quelled a disturbance Sunday and ended up with a huge, dead owl for their efforts. After a day-long battle between the owl and most of the crows in southeast Lincoln over the right of the owl to roost in a tree near 2035 Park, distraught residents of the area complained to the Humane Society. This request was then relayed to Policemen

Escapee Taken Near Denton

A 27-year-old Grand Island man who escaped from the State Penitentiary Saturday night was captured late Sunday morning when he was spotted south of Denton on the railroad tracks by Safety Patrolman W. L. Flower of Exeter.

He is Ronald Larkin, sentenced from Hall County in January for breaking and entering. He had served almost half of his one year term at the time of his escape.

Capt. Dan Casey said three troopers were sent to Flower's aid, and with the help of Saline County Sheriff John Tesar, who was in the vicinity, successfully tracked the escapee in the timber covered bottoms south of Denton.

Aiding in the hour-long search and capture were Patrolmen E. C. Minary, V. R. O'Neil and Lynn Parks, all of Lincoln.

At the time of his capture Larkin was wearing blue jeans and white shirt. He indicated to officers that he hid the clothing before his escape and when his attempt was successfully changed from the prison garb he had been wearing.

Penitentiary officials said Larkin disappeared from a work detail at the prison power house about 10:30 p.m. Saturday. They indicated he would have been up for parole within a few weeks.

Three other penitentiary inmates who escaped from a dairy detail last week are still at large.

Back-Rubbers Control Borersome Horn Flies

Horn flies may be controlled with several insecticides applied to burlap back-rubbers, according to Bob Roselle, entomologist at the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture.

His Extension Circular 1568 tells how these very small blood-sucking flies that are always present wherever cattle are pastured during the summer may be successfully controlled.

For the details on how to build a cable back-rubber and information on what insecticides to use on the back-rubber ask your local county agent for Extension Circular 1568 "Horn Fly Control with Cable Back-Rubber."

U.S. Attitude Hit

NEW YORK (AP)—Spruille Braden, former U.S. ambassador to several Latin American countries, Sunday night urged the United States to "stop this namby-pamby attitude" toward Communism in Latin America.

"It's getting to the point where we're going to lose this hemisphere" to Communism, he said.

News Around The Globe

Nine Injured

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A huge tractor-trailer loaded with 29,000 pounds of dried milk roared down a mile-long hill Sunday and plowed into a busy line of Sunday traffic, injuring nine persons and wrecking five cars before coming to rest on its side. One of the injured, a 77-year-old woman, was pronounced dead of a heart attack after being treated for minor injuries.

Driver John Verhulst, 21, of New Holland, Mich., told police his brakes failed as his truck started down Ridge Pike—a straightaway hill which drops 200 feet in the distance of about five city blocks.

Wilson In Manila

MANILA (Monday) (AP)—U.S. Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson arrived here today for two days of important defense talks brought on by the Indo-China crisis.

The Manila Times quoted top aids today as saying President Ramon Magsaysay would present Wilson a plan outlining minimum requirements for Philippine defense.

Slaying Confessed

BOSTON (INS)—Boston police reported that a husky, 200-pound ex-convict confessed Sunday that he fatally beat a Boston mother whose nude body was found in the nearby Blue Hills.

Authorities said the confession was made by James T. (Jumbo) Lunnin, 31, father of three children, who with his companion, Eugene G. Sawyer, 21, also of Boston, was charged with slaying Mrs. Mary Isles.

Navy Officer Held

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Police said Sunday that a Navy officer who was en route to the Philippines has been returned here for questioning in the fatal stabbing of strip tease dancer Lynn Williams, 28, on May 14.

Homicide Lt. Charles Wood said the officer, Lt. Cmdr. Markle T. Smith, 40, of Connorsville, Ind., was brought back here and now is being detained at the Navy's Treasure Island Base at the request of Oakland police.

Fender Skirts Stolen

Julius Saldana of 343 C reported to police both fender skirts were taken from his automobile while it was parked in front of his home Sunday night.

French Kill 5

TUNIS, Tunisia (AP)—French Army and Marine troops killed five Tunisian Nationalists, wounded one, and lost two of their own men and three wounded in a two-day battle for a mountainous peak in a lake near Bizerte, it was announced.

It was part of a renewed outbreak of violence in this uneasy French protectorate in which there were 13 casualties. Nationalists attacked telephone lines and set up road blocks. They also killed a French forest ranger and wounded a customs officer.

French sources said the peak had been turned into a Nationalist arsenal and "underground munitions dump" within the fortified zone of Bizerte and contained American arms, field glasses, staff maps, medical supplies and other booty.

Merger Okayed

DETROIT (INS)—Approval of a merger of two groups and election of a new moderator cleared the way for other action in the final three days of the 166th General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of Detroit.

Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd, president of Maryville College in Tennessee, was named moderator and New York banker Frank M. Totton, was elected executive director of the Presbyterian Foundation. Delegates were unanimous in approving plans for a merger of the Presbyterian Church in the United States (Southern) and the United Presbyterian Church.

Speed-Up Wanted

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The 49th Quadrennial Conference of the Seventh-Day Adventist Church—one of the largest religious meetings ever held here—opens Monday, against a backdrop of urgency.

Adventist President William H. Branson of Washington, D.C., said in an interview, his official message will urge a speed-up of "public and lay evangelism."

Schine Offer Told

NEW YORK (INS)—New York Daily Mirror columnist Walter Winchell said Sunday night that Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens "offered a place in the Pentagon to Private G. David Schine" with the approval of Defense Chief Charles E. Wilson.

Endicott High Class Observes Golden Reunion

Lincoln Star Special

FAIRBURY, Neb.—Two Fairbury residents were among members of the Class of 1904 of Endicott High School which were honored by the school on the 50th anniversary of their graduation.

One hundred forty members of the Endicott High School alumni met at the Endicott Methodist Church to honor the members of the old class who were holding the golden anniversary reunion. All the members of the class are living and in good health.

The following 1904 class members were present:

Mrs. Beulah Jackman, Omaha. Mrs. Opal Zabel, Fairbury. Mrs. Alta Savage, Adams. Mrs. Kate Gill, Steele City. Sarnel Savage, Kimball. Homer S. Yeakle, Fairbury.

Mrs. Anna Dawson of Endicott was a member of the class but was unable to graduate because of illness and death in her family. Unable to attend were Z. Clark Dickinson, Ann Arbor, Mich., and Roy Joslin of Filer, Ida. G. M. Eaton of Cozad, superintendent of the Endicott High School 50 years ago, spoke at the reunion. Warren Fairchild was toastmaster. Oliver Stull read the recognition of the old class.

Three-Car Crash Injures Boy Of 1

A one-year-old boy was injured and an expectant mother held for observation as the result of a three-car accident Sunday at the intersection of Highway 6 and Huskerville Road.

Kenneth Broman, of Fairmont, age 1, riding in a car driven by his father Ralph, received an injured right knee and Mrs. Carol Christ, 28, of 115 D in Huskerville was taken to Bryan Memorial Hospital for observation of any possible complications to her pregnancy.

Young Broman was treated at St. Elizabeth's Hospital. Safety Patrolman Del Whitefoot, who investigated the accident, said the collision occurred while the Broman car was going west on Highway 6 and the Christ car made a left turn into the Huskerville road while going east. The two were in collision and the Broman car then bounced into a car driven by Francis VanEperen of 2129 Euclid while it was parked at the intersection stop sign, Patrolman Whitefoot said.

Graduation Schedule

Auction Group Elects Tobin

ALLIANCE, Neb. (AP)—The Nebraska Livestock Auction Assn wound up its two-day meeting at Alliance Sunday with the election of Joe Tobin of Chadron as president.

Other officers named by the board of directors included Alvin Ramsbottom of Hebron, first vice president, and Warren Nelson of Broken Bow, second vice president.

Ed P. Ryan of Grand Island was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

During the morning session, the delegates chose three new members to the board of directors. They were Bob Williamson of Grand Island, Alvin Ramsbottom of Hebron and Fred Wacker of McCook.

The group also endorsed a slate of resolutions calling for:

1. Federal legislation providing for the bonding of packers.
2. Investigation of a state regulation requiring a certificate of convenience and necessity for the establishment of auction markets in Nebraska.
3. Moderation in the application of present and future packers and stockyards rules and regulations.
4. Full support of Gov. Robert Crosby's highway safety program.

Now Is Best Time For Gopher Control

Now is the best time to control pocket gophers which have been active for sometime, say entomologists at the University of Nebraska. Traps or poisons may be used as a method of control.

Baits are probably more satisfactory and easier to use in large infestations. Carrots or potatoes with strychnine, or poisoned oats or wheat are good pocket gopher baits.

Larger Families Are Popular Again

NEW YORK (INS)—The president of one of the country's leading women's college sees the return of large families and the return of the old-fashioned American home.

Mrs. Millicent McIntosh, president of Barnard College for Women at Columbia University, believes the nation's young adult population wants to return to the benefits of warm home relationships that were so often denied the "lost generation" after the first World War.

The gray-haired educator, herself the mother of five children, said:

"All the college students I know are anxious to have big families and willing to make financial sacrifices in order to do this. These youngsters are hungry for basic human relationships and reject the gadgets of modern living because they see they have not brought happiness to their own families."

Painting Of Chemicals Controls Post Beetles

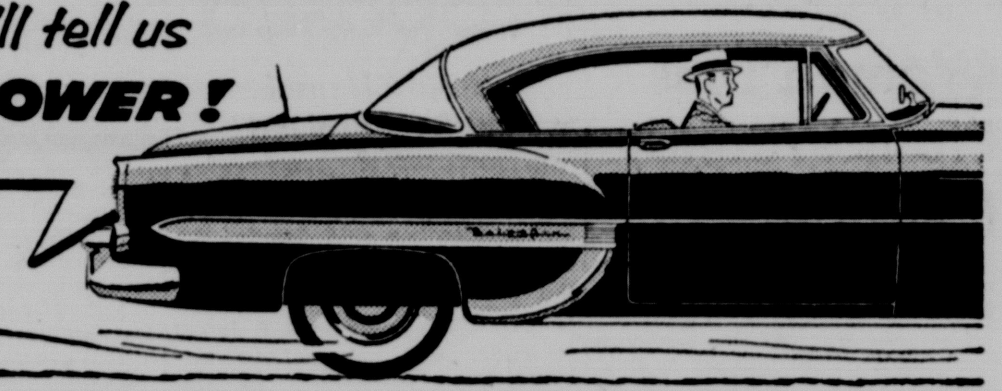

Entomologists at the University of Nebraska report that powder post beetles are causing damage to oak flooring in some homes throughout the state.

These dark brown, hard bodied bugs burrow through the floor boards leaving a tiny mound of powdery floor dust around each hole which is about the size of a pin.

One of the best treatments is a 5 per cent pentachlorophenol solution painted on the surface of the wood. It may be necessary to first remove the wax and varnish so that the solution can penetrate.

We pay this man to drink milk all day long!

Meet the man whose word is law at Roberts Dairy. No, he's not an executive of the Company. But he's an expert judge of flavor and quality!

As each can of milk comes to the Roberts plant, he dips out a sample . . . pours it into a second dipper . . . and tests the taste. If it fails to meet rigid standards, the farmer's shipment is rejected.

To our knowledge, no other midwest dairy goes to the effort or expense of sampling every can of milk received from producers. That's one reason no other milk tastes quite so good as Roberts!

Henderson School Dedication Is Held

Lincoln Star Special
HENDERSON, Neb.—More than 1,000 persons attended dedication services here Sunday for the new $410,000 elementary and high school.

F. B. Decker, state superintendent of public instruction, delivered the main address on "What Makes a Good School." The Rev. Arnold Nickels of the Bethesda Mennonite Church here gave the invocation. The dedication was made by the Rev. H. R. Baerg of the Mennonite Brethren Church.

Ted Schmidt, president of the school board, read the dedication litany. A past president of the board, Fred Frisen, also spoke. Music was provided by the Henderson High School mixed octette.

Superintendent of Henderson schools is Allen M. Friesen. Twelve school districts united to finance the construction of the one-story brick school. School population includes 254 grade school children and 106 high school students, nine elementary and seven high school teachers. A fleet of six buses serves the district.

The school includes, in the high school section, a library-study hall, two classrooms, and science, commercial, homemaking, and vocational units; in the elementary section, nine classrooms and two observation rooms; offices and an auditorium-gymnasium. Bernard P. Daxon of Holdrege was the architect.

Plans for the school construction were begun in 1949 by the Henderson Better Education Committee led by Ted Schmidt, P. H. Kaspar, Albert A. Buller, R. J. Peters, and D. M. Goossen.

Cuming Feed Tour, Banquet June 3

WEST POINT, Neb.—The annual Cuming County feed lot tour and banquet is scheduled for Thursday, June 3.

This year's stops will include the feedlots of Frank Ridder, Albert Heimann, Throener brothers, Andy and Rudy Ritter, Theodore Gentrup, Charles Reeson, and Louis Luebbert.

In addition to seeing cattle of many different grades fed in many different ways, those on the tour will see modern feeding yards, feed carts, unloaders, corn dryers, many ways of storing feed and hay choppers. There will also be an exhibit of champions that produced champions.

Speakers for the program include Professor William J. Loeffel, Chairman of the Animal Husbandry Department, University of Nebraska; Bill Branch, USDA market news reporter; F. E. Borchers, manager of Swift & Co.; Clarence Knoke, cattle feeder; and George Round, director of public relations, University of Nebraska. Round will be master of ceremonies for the evening program and banquet to be held at 7 p.m. in the Bancroft school auditorium.

Wide Shift Seen In State Planting

According to farmer March 1 planting intentions, there will be a considerable shift in the acreage of many crops planted in 1954 as compared to 1953.

Agriculture economists at the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture report planting intentions for corn down 7 per cent; winter wheat (fall seeded) down 15 per cent; spring wheat down 12 per cent; oats, no change; barley up 50 per cent; sorghum up 75 per cent; potatoes down 21 per cent; beans, dry, up 14 per cent; soybeans, all purposes, up 55 per cent; sugar beets up 11 per cent; and all hay harvested up 3 per cent.

The economists point out that this indicated planting may change because farmers had not received their corn acreage allotments at time of survey.

M. S. Peterson, 67, Dies At Alliance

ALLIANCE, Neb.—Maurice S. Peterson, 67, a member of one of the most prominent ranching families in the Sandhills area, died here.

He was born in Mt. Pleasant, Ia., in 1887, and came to this part of the state as a young child. The Peterson family has since the turn of the century, built up one of the best known and largest herds in this part of that state.

Services were held at the Methodist Church here with the Rev. K. Orlando Lee officiating. Burial was in Alliance.

Lasting Dust Cure Planned

State and Federal soil conservationists are considering a long range program that may point the way toward a permanent cure for recurring dust bowls in the Southwest.

They say this spring's drought in that region is the fourth major drought since the land was first settled by farmers, nearly 70 years ago. To avoid similar disasters in the future, they aim to convert about 8 or 9 million acres of present crop land to permanent grassland. They say that much is unsuited to cultivation. On land that remains in cultivation, they plan such conservation practices as stubble mulch tillage, cover cropping, strip cropping, and terracing for water conservation.

Strictly For Men

Male America may find it difficult to discharge its debt to 14-year-old William Cashore, tall, dark and handsome, of Center Square, Pa., and to 11-year-old William Kelley, Missouri farm boy.

In the national capital late last week the two walked off with top honors in one of those old-fashioned spelling bees, which in recent years have been the despair of the male and the glorification of the female of the species.

Young Cashore took every word in stride, although admittedly, near the close of the contest, those in charge called upon him to spell words which are out of this world.

Some, he admitted later, were words he had never heard before, and some of them forced him to guess. There is nothing wrong with guessing, it should be noted, whenever one guesses right. The only evil about guessing is to guess wrong.

Young Cashore—be careful not to tell the gals about this—has brought the laurels back where they belong. Since the first bee was held in 1925, twice the number of girls have been winners than boys. And in the 1954 contest there were 39 girl finalists to 18 boys.

Perhaps it's just as well if the males abstain from boasting.

Strange Happenings In Oregon

If the final count confirms earlier reports from the Oregon primary, the frayed tempers of the members of this 83rd Congress are understandable.

When this was written it appeared that the dean of the Oregon Republican delegation in the House, Rep. Homer D. Angell, had gone down to defeat against a radio commentator, T. Lawson McCall. It is bad enough any time to be defeated. It is worse, after having been elected and re-elected eight times, to lose out to a newcomer in politics, even in Oregon where standard equipment in the form of a nursing bottle bears a political label. All other members of the Oregon delegation did not have primary opposition, or perhaps it might be easier to discover what cooks.

Obviously, however, the people of Oregon are on the warpath. This primary result could be as significant as any of the early contests in 1954. It might foreshadow the defeat of Sen. Guy Cordon of Oregon, who faces a two-fronted opponent by the name of Richard Neuberger, Neuberger, one of the most capable men in discussing the public power program in the Northwest, will make it very uncomfortable for Cordon throughout the summer and fall.

So here is another chapter on the carefully prepared Senate document, unanimously adopted by a Senate subcommittee, which Brownell has allowed to gather dust in his files, while the Justice Department mails out letters alluring for McCarthy.

Vote For 18-Year-Olds

If at long last President Eisenhower has decided to take on the burdens of leadership which the presidency involves, then it will be all to the good.

In recent days the report has gone around Washington that Mr. Eisenhower has decided he was getting poor advice from his advisers, particularly the advice he got in the campaign of 1952 when the President could have solved one of his most tormenting headaches in the form of Sen. Joe McCarthy. It will be remembered that originally in his Milwaukee speech the President deleted paragraphs intended to demonstrate once and for all that he had nothing in common with McCarthy, who then was up for re-election and won

Of Men And Things

By J. E. LAWRENCE

How fortunate it is that memory is short! Thanks to that blessed trait of human nature, Nebraskans may be spared considerable embarrassment in connection with a news dispatch circulated widely over the nation.

Here we were, only a matter of slightly more than 10 years ago, pushing out our chests, strutting our stuff while telling the world about a frugal, tax conscious "white spot" which held the secret of economical state government. Here was paradise—the paradise sought by every taxpayer. Here was perfection—at least as near perfection as human mortals may expect on this earth. Now we know we do have a tax problem, one which seems to be a bit stubborn when it comes to solving it. Now we know that perhaps a simple tax base must make way inevitably for a broadened base. And to cap all that, there was wide publicity over the country that Nebraska had a higher ratio of people employed by local government than has the nation on an average. Who pricks our balloon with that sad news? Only the United States Census Bureau, Nebraska, it reports, has 305.6 people out of every 10,000 working for the state, compared with 260.5 out of 10,000 nationally.

On the surface, it appears that in proclaiming Nebraska to be the "White Spot" in the late 30's, either we shot our big mouth off at the wrong time, or something has happened since 1940. Our own guess places it on the latter. Something happened since the late 30's—something most pleasing to all of us—and something which may come to an end if certain people back in Washington keep hewing away to shape national policy along present developing lines.

Fact is that beginning early in the 40's and continuing uninterruptedly until late in 1953, Nebraskans experienced the best years of their lives, pocketbook-wise. They produced bumper crops. They sold them at peak prices. They paid a lot of taxes, it is true, but they were in an economic position to pay the taxes. They did not have Secretary Benson's shadow hanging over them in his crusade for flexible price supports for agricultural products. They had security, an enriched rural life, comforts and conveniences for the farm homes, and healthy, flourishing business in the towns and cities. It was reflected, not in the field to which the critics pointed—an expanding bureaucracy in Washington—but right here at home on the level of local government and state government. And President Eisenhower's crusade to place increasing emphasis upon the part state and local government should play is apt to contribute to the trend of more and more job-holders on state and local levels. There can be no other outcome unless people are willing to pull in their horns, dispense with services to which they have become accustomed, and quit calling on government for so much which they feel government should supply.

Best Years Of Nebraska's Life

There are now 48,413 Nebraskans holding jobs in connection with state and local government. Of the total, 11,058 toil for the state; 37,355 for local governmental subdivisions under the state. There, in a nutshell, is one phase—a highly important one—of Nebraska's tax problem. On the political side, Nebraska Republicans cannot laugh that one off while talking about waste in Washington. They have been in charge of state government here since 1940, while all this was happening.

by a greatly reduced figure, by comparison with other Republican candidates.

Near week's-end the President's proposal for a Constitutional amendment to lower the voting age to 18 was killed in the Senate by a vote of 34 to 24.

It is impossible to draw any single clear-cut issue on this proposal to give the ballot to 18-year-olds. It is not wholly convincing simply to say that because the 18-year-old is subject to military duty, and is called upon to fight for his country, he should be permitted to express himself on its government. Of greater importance, unfortunately championed by some of the diehard Southerners, notably Russell of Georgia where 18-year-olds now vote, is the fact that in the field of defining voting qualifications, the sovereign state has been supreme. There is a great deal to be said that each state should define the age limitation and other qualifications for the voter.

It was not the first and probably will not be the last of President Eisenhower's legislative proposals to meet defeat.

Most of them are still pending in Congressional committees, some of them obviously bottled up by rebellious elements of the President's party. Mr. Eisenhower, deplorably, has had to change his tune on reciprocal-trading agreements. His labor recommendations appear to be sunk without trace. On housing, Congress has gone along with part of his program but one vital phase of it has been killed. He and Secretary Benson may get the elastic farm commodity price support program they want, but if they do they'll not be lucky.

The Administration has a little more than 60 days to solve even a small portion of its recommendations. That is a very short time with so much hanging in the fire.

Roger Shumate

Dr. Roger Shumate, a member of the teaching staff of the University of Nebraska and director of research of the Nebraska Legislative Council, served this state most usefully.

He was a prodigious worker, with wide and varied interests. On the campus he endeared himself to the undergraduate body and to his colleagues on the faculty. As director of research for the legislative council, his untiring efforts to get at the facts in calm, dispassionate, unbiased spirit in the many studies ordered by the legislature, he was a source of inspiration and of invaluable aid to the legislators themselves. The members held him in highest esteem, recognizing the high character of his work, his kindly unselfish interest, and above all the spirit of dedication to public welfare which marked his efforts. He will be missed both in the classroom and in the legislative chambers where through the years he became a familiar figure held in terms of highest respect and esteem.

Dr. Shumate had a deep insight into the problems of government—deep convictions with reference to sound public policy. But in the depth of his convictions invariably he revealed respect for the judgment of others. A companionable man, of wide and varied interests, a lover of his books and of the out-of-doors, warm hearted and understanding with his fellow men, his death in the prime of life is a tragic development.

Brownell Holds Lid On McCarthy Report

WASHINGTON — Despite the headlines, Sen. McCarthy has given Attorney General Brownell and despite McCarthy's current demand that high-level talks in the Justice Department be made public, Brownell has worked out a careful alibi for Sen. McCarthy regarding his strange finances.

When a taxpayer writes Brownell asking what has happened to the Senate report on McCarthy's financial operation he receives the following reply:

"This will acknowledge receipt of your letter dated . . . concerning United States Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy of Wisconsin.

"The Senate subcommittee report on this matter has been carefully reviewed and the facts fail to indicate a violation of any existing federal criminal statutes. Accordingly, this department does not contemplate any further action in this matter.

"Your interest in writing to this department concerning this matter is appreciated."

The letter is signed for "Warren Olney III, assistant attorney general for the criminal division, by Ben Brooks, chief, general crimes section." However, the text of the letter was worked out very carefully with the sanction of Brownell himself, and thousands of these letters have been mailed to people who inquire about McCarthy's finances.

So here is another chapter on the carefully prepared Senate document, unanimously adopted by a Senate subcommittee, which Brownell has allowed to gather dust in his files, while the Justice Department mails out letters alluring for McCarthy.

It has already been noted in an earlier column that before McCarthy discovered the issue of Communism he was in constant hot water with his bank in Appleton, Wis. The senate report also stated that McCarthy's bank deposits and those of his assistant, Ray Kiermas, increased contemporaneously with the advent of McCarthy's "fight" to expose Communists.

In fact, his bank deposits, including heavy deposits of cash, skyrocketed. Presumably much of this money came from people who wanted to help him fight Communism.

It has already been reported how $10,000 of this money, advanced by Congressman and Mrs. Alvin Bentley of Michigan, was used to speculate on the soybean market; and here is another illustration of concealed speculation through McCarthy's brother William.

"William P. McCarthy," according to the Senate report, "is employed in Chicago as a truck driver. He resides in a modest home at 1938 Wolfram street and appears to be a man of modest means. There is no evidence that William P. McCarthy had any experience in the commodity market prior to 1938."

The Senate report then goes on to tell how William McCarthy received $2,025 from his senatorial brother in small deposits in his savings account during the year 1950. The deposits began coming in on Feb. 20, 1950, just three weeks after the senator's first speech on Communism.

Shortly after each deposit was made the Senate committee stated, "similar amounts were charged to the general account of Sen. McCarthy in the Riggs National Bank" in Washington.

CONCEALED SPECULATION

Meanwhile, William had been trading in the commodity market, obviously on behalf of his senatorial brother.

"Trading between Dec. 22, 1950, and March 8, 1951, resulted in a profit of $2,109," notes the Senate committee. "And as of March 8, 1951, William had a credit balance with Daniel F. Rice and Co., of $7,159. On March 9, 1951, he closed out his account, and on that date Daniel F. Rice issued its check to William P. McCarthy for $7,159.

"On March 19," continued the Senate report, "an account was opened in the name of Julia Connolly, which is the maiden name of Mrs. William P. McCarthy. The account was opened with a cash deposit of $7,000, being a portion of the $7,159 check issued by Daniel F. Rice to William P. McCarthy.

"When interviewed on June 19, 1952," reported the senate committee, "William P. McCarthy stated that the account was opened with the idea of concealing the account in the event of an investigation of Sen. McCarthy's affairs."

SILENT WILLIAM

Brother William was not so cooperative when Senate investigators tried to interview him a second time on November 17, three months later. By that time, the Senate probe was getting hot, and William shut up like a clam.

What Senate probes wanted to talk to him about was something more important than commodity speculation—namely, the possibility of his brother, the senator, had fiddled on his income tax.

Sen. McCarthy's 1949 income tax, according to the Senate report, showed a deduction of $2,258 for interest paid to William P. McCarthy. The Senate committee then pointed to this strange fact:

"There is no indication," it said, "that William P. McCarthy has ever had the financial capacity to loan anyone an amount that would earn interest of $2,258 in one year, or even in several years."

To have received interest of $2,258, William would have had to loan brother Joe about $40,000. And Senate inspection of his bank accounts showed that he never had more than $3,124.72 in the bank up until the time his brother began to advance money for speculating purposes.

Therefore, Joe McCarthy's deduction of $2,258 for interest, which materially reduced his income tax, raised doubts in the minds of investigating senators.

Also raised were a whole series of questions regarding McCarthy's strange, roundabout financial operations—questions which have been answered by Sen. McCarthy and which have been officially and publicly condoned by Attorney General Brownell.

Note—The senators who did most of the work in this important probe were Hayden of Arizona, Hennings of Missouri, and Hendrickson of New Jersey.

UNDER THE DOME

The trolley that scoots senators underground from their office building to the Senate was crowded with tourists the other day when Sens. John Bricker, Ohio Republican, and Bob Kerr, Oklahoma Democrat, showed up for a ride. Bricker pulled his senatorial rank and ousted a tourist from his seat. Kerr stood up at the rear of the car, let the tourists remain seated.

West Drifts Toward Test Of Strength

GENEVA—This is likely to be the last conference between the West and the Communists for a very long time. That is the outlook beyond the failure, which is now so evident, to resolve around a conference table the outstanding differences over the two trouble spots of Korea and Indo-China.

The consequences are, therefore, more serious than the immediate failure to come to some settlement on specific issues. For the next resort of preventive war, Europe and in Asia is impossible, there must seem to be no recourse but preparation for an ultimate test of strength.

Under the Truman-Acheson containment policy, both the President and the secretary of state resisted efforts to have an East-West meeting of heads of state on the ground that failure of such a meeting would strengthen the position of those arguing that the only resort was the next resort of preventive war. Such a drift after the impasse of Geneva must not be discounted.

With each new Communist speech members of the American delegation believe that Communist intransigence is nailed down even tighter. Thus Molotov insisting on making a second Korean speech, refusing to give way for Bidault who had not spoken on that subject, repeated all the old charges rehearsed at least a hundred times in previous conferences and at the United Nations.

In the American view this was still another nail in the Communist position already unyieldingly rigid. Outwardly, of course, the American view is that on Indo-China we shall still go on trying to reconcile the position of the Communists at one extreme for a simple cease-fire and the Bidault proposals for a controlled armistice at the other extreme.

No Westerner can tell what is being said within the Communist delegations but it is not hard to imagine them, or, at any rate, the Chinese, saying very much the same things about the rigidity of the American position. Certainly, there are some obvious embarrassments in that position. For example, it has been impossible in spite of every effort in both Seoul and Geneva to persuade Syngman Rhee to concede for bargaining purposes that supervised elections shall be held in North and South Korea. These elections would be supervised by the United Nations and, since the Communists reject the U.N., Rhee would be perfectly safe in making such a concession.

The American position has not been easy to sustain, with wavering and doubtful allies on the one hand and the wall of Communist intransigence on the other. A further and a serious complication has been the seemingly contradictory statements coming from various American sources. The French themselves have given out so many conflicting statements about Indo-China that it was small wonder the Americans could formulate no clear plan.

In connection with press reaction, American officials have developed a great sensitivity which is reminiscent of the latter phase of the Truman-Acheson foreign policy, when Acheson felt that insofar as the press was concerned he could do nothing right. One hears bitter complaints about the carping press and the failure of American newspapers to support the American position. Why, one is asked, should this burden be added to the constant attacks that come from the propaganda press behind the Iron Curtain?

Perhaps this comes down to where the blame lies for what most objective observers believe is a serious loss of American prestige. Even the consistently pro-American and influential magazine, The Economist, in an editorial, entitled "Alliance in Danger," lists successive Dulles bluffs which have been called with the result to frighten America's allies much more than to impress the Communists.

American diplomats now in Geneva must at least go through the motions of a conference however much they may disbelieve, given the constraints put around them, in any constructive outcome. But it is unlikely that Dulles and his colleagues will again put themselves in such a difficult position across a conference table from the Communists.

BILL DOBLER At City Hall

Amber-Light Rule In 'Trial' Period

Amber traffic lights have apparently been making motorists see red in recent weeks.

Many tempers have flared over the new law which prohibits the crossing of an intersection on an amber light. While it may yet be a little early for judgment, it appears as though a new law may have been adopted a little too hastily.

One of the least discussed features of the traffic code adopted last month, the amber light rule is now coming in for more than its share of publicity. No other feature of the code has caused anywhere nearly the stir as that one.

The basic objection to the new regulation is that it requires motorists to make a sudden stop when the amber light flashes on without the warning of a flashing green light. Motorists have complained to practically all city officials that it is all but impossible to stop before getting into an intersection when the amber light flashes on just as the car hits the pedestrian crosswalk.

While critical of the law himself, Mayor Clark Jeary has said he will go along with the police and legal departments in giving what they think is a fair trial to the provision. Those two departments apparently have faith in the workability of the law, but that faith may falsely spring from their desire to correct an evil that would be better dealt with in some other manner or with different legislation.

***

The driver the two departments are after is the person who spots the amber light in plenty of time to stop, but instead, races his car up to and across the intersection a split second before the green light has cars entering the intersection from a conflicting direction. This individual frequently passes through most of the intersection on the red light and is obviously in violation of the new law.

The difficulty under the old law was the requirement on the part of the prosecution to prove that such a driver could have stopped safely without going through the intersection. Under the old law, an unsafe stop was grounds for proceeding through the intersection on an amber light.

Under the new law, if the amber light goes on before a car enters an intersection, the driver must stop his car as nearly as possible on that side of the intersection he is entering. If the amber light goes on when the driver is in the intersection he is permitted to proceed on through the intersection.

The theory on which the legal department bases its faith in the law involves the definition of the intersection. That department's definition of an intersection includes the pedestrian crosswalk.

Thus, Deputy City Attorney Jack Pace theorizes that if the amber light goes on before a car hits the crosswalk, the driver has time and space to stop safely before coming in conflict with traffic starting across the intersection from the other direction. Some protrusion into the intersection would be necessary but this would be no violation.

Actually, the lines that can be drawn between the old and new law are pretty thin. Where the enforcing officer had to determine the safety of a stop under the old law, he now has to be able to prove whether the amber light flashed on before or after a car crossed an imaginary line on the street.

It is difficult to see how either of the laws can be enforced except where there are flagrant violations and under those conditions, one law would seem to be as easily enforced as the other.

Many Lincoln drivers may be up in arms over something they apparently do not understand and for which there was no need. While little harm can be done in the trial period approved by Jeary, the new law requires real discretion on the part of traffic officers.

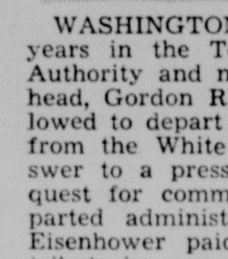

One individual, probably the only one who's been fined for an amber light violation since the new law went into effect spent a half hour discussing the offense with Police Department officers. The man's ticket still cost him a $1 fine and $3.80 court cost which still has him disturbed.

How flagrant a violation this was is not known here but the individual involved felt the penalty was unjust. If traffic officers try enforcing the new regulation to the letter of the law, there will be a lot of indignant drivers on city streets.

While motorists are urged to use common sense and good judgment in driving, the same principles should apply to the enactment of legislation. The sad thing is, the new amber light law is building up resentment against the traffic program when co-operation and understanding is the keynote to the success of that program.

Clapp Gone From TVA, Private Power Gains

WASHINGTON — After 21 years in the Tennessee Valley Authority and nine years at its head, Gordon R. Clapp was allowed to depart without a word from the White House. In answer to a press conference request for comment on the departed administrator, President Eisenhower paid him grudging tribute in a grudging tone.

Later, acting on better advice, the President made public a polite letter to Mr. Clapp expressing "thanks for your service to your government."

The President is in political trouble on TVA and his voice had that special edginess that comes to all men only when the speaker realizes he is himself partly to blame for the fix he is in.

The President—any president—has a right to choose his administrators. It is, however, only proper, and certainly politically intelligent, to walk softly where Congress has put a nonpartisan label on the job.

This was done in the case of the TVA chairman both in congressional debate and by giving him a nine-year term. Actually, both Tennessee senators at the time—McKellar and Stewart—voted against Clapp when he was nominated by Roosevelt.

It has been said that the only Republican senator in the TVA area, John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky, was against Clapp. What happened was that Sen. Cooper discovered at the start of TVA discussions at the White House that the President was adamantly determined to let Clapp go.

Senator Cooper bent his energies then to enforcement of the principle that the TVA chairman must be a nonpartisan expert. His insistence largely helped prevent the naming of the Republican state chairman of Tennessee, Harry Carbaugh. Carbaugh was a candidate of Rep. Carroll Reece, who is now chasing after the Ford, Rockefeller and other Foundations because they are too liberal for his tastes.

TVA senators, who have been keeping discreetly silent in the now-vain hope that Clapp might be renamed, put the blame for Eisenhower's attitude on Secretary of Commerce Weeks. They point out that Weeks is a Boston capitalist and that major investments of that group are in private utilities.

While this struggle simmered underground the President indiscreetly used TVA as an example of "creeping socialism." This has given Sen. Kefauver of Tennessee his best campaign issue. It frightened the nine-state area that uses TVA power, and presidential reassurances have not made much impression.

The President has said repeatedly that he is seeking a partnership between federal, state and local governments on one hand, and private power on the other. That he has is his power policy. If it were not for his indiscretion on "creeping socialism," he might have put it across without present alarms, but the phrase has too often been used by those who opposed the power policies from their inception.

Sensors hear that the name of Sam Morris, a Los Angeles engineer with government experience, is being checked by the White House for the Clapp post. Clapp, himself grew up with TVA, and the change of administration did not soften his ardent championship of it. For all who have long lived with the concept, he espoused by the late George Norris, such deep emotion seems natural. It has, in fact, communicated itself to the world, and TVA has been for many years the American achievement to which visitors from abroad make pilgrimage. To the underdeveloped areas of the world, especially, it has been a symbol of hope and accomplishment.

SENORITA MARIA URUETA

OF ESPECIAL interest to Lincoln this morning is the announcement of the approaching marriage of Senorita Maria Urueta of Barranquilla, Colombia, S. A., daughter of the late Senor and Senora Urueta, to John Frederick Wells, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick N. Wells of Lincoln.

The wedding will take place in the chapel of Westminster Presbyterian church in Lincoln on Tuesday, June 22.

Senorita Urueta attended school in Philadelphia, and was graduated from Western College, Oxford, O. Prior to her career as a college girl in North America, the bride-elect attended a girls' school in Bogota.

Mr. Wells, a lieutenant in the Navy reserve, served in World War II, and had a tour of duty on Guam. He recently was released from a second tour of duty with the Navy. Mr. Wells was graduated from the University of Nebraska where he is a member of Phi Kappa Psi fraternity.

We Hear That--

Mrs. Agnes Thomas of Denver, formerly of Lincoln, has returned to her home after spending a few days as the guest of her aunt, Mrs. W. A. Fink.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Conlee have returned home after spending the winter months in Long Beach, Calif. Since their return, the Conlees had as their guests Mrs. Walter Blake and her mother, Mrs. Carl Stoll of Hollywood, Calif., who were in Lincoln Sunday to Wednesday en route to Mrs. Blake's home in Minneapolis, Minn. Mrs. Blake, the former Susan Elizabeth Stoll, has been visiting her mother in California. Both are former Lincoln residents.

PEO Chapters Plan Programs

Mrs. Bess Streeter Aldrich will be hostess Monday evening to the members of Chapter DL, PEO, at her home, 1000 So. 52nd. A report on the state convention will be given by the chapter president, Mrs. R. A. Wekesser, and assisting hostesses will be Mrs. Milton Beechener and Mrs. Paul Peterson.

The regular meeting of Chapter EE, PEO, will be held Monday evening following a 7:30 o'clock dessert supper at the Foods and Nutrition Building on the Agricultural College campus.

Mrs. Emil Koenig and Mrs. Vern Nelson will be hostesses for the supper, and the program will be presented by Mrs. George Spidel.

BSP Installation

Xi Beta chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met Thursday evening at the home of Miss Viola Nelson for an informal dessert supper followed by the installation of new officers.

President of the chapter will be Mrs. Harold Schwarz, and other new officers installed were Miss Genevieve Whelan, vice president; Miss Esther Fields, recording secretary; Mrs. William Jacobs, corresponding secretary; and Miss Margaret Egan, treasurer.

A gift was presented to Miss Helen Smith, outgoing president, and hostesses for the supper were Mrs. Reland Blakesley, Miss Smith and Miss Nelson.

Nu Phi Mu Entertains At Tea

Entertaining at a membership tea Saturday afternoon at the YWCA were Lincoln members of Nu Phi Mu, the "little sister" organization of Beta Sigma Phi sorority. The guests were senior girls from high schools in Lincoln and neighboring communities.

Mrs. Charles Bukin, president of the Star board, was in charge of arrangements for the tea which included a program of skits depicting the various activities of the group during the past year. Participating in the skits were Miss Marjorie Reigert, Miss Vivian Snook, Miss Beverly Murray, Miss Diana McKnight and Miss Betty Tate.

Miss Barbara Ninneman, also a guest at the tea, and Mrs. Bukin.

LIKE PANCAKES? REDEEM GOOCH'S BEST COUPONS NOW!

IF YOU have read the left-hand corner of the page this morning you know that at least one of our exciting engagements—involving lovely brunettes—has answered to roll call. The second one that we have mentioned from time to time is accounted for—and will be present most any day—

So that gets the current Monday-morning off to a good start—and speaking of mornings and starting—we hear that rumors of "the biggest" fish have been trickling down from Minnesota, and that a group of Lincoln men have gone to investigate. We think the fishing idea is a red herring since we notice that most of them took more golf paraphernalia than fishing tackle.

Anyway, off to Alexandria, Minn., yesterday went Phil Sides, Blanchard Anderson, Dr. Norman Carlson, Max Roper, Carl Olson and Gilbert Reynolds of Grand Island.

WHILE on travel topics we wondered about Mrs. Donald W. Miller—and if she might be coming home early next month. We learned that the latest word from Mrs. Miller was from Pakistan—also, that she will not be coming home until about July 4.

THE wives of the officers of the Naval Air Station—and the Marine Corps—were mighty busy the past week-end. On Saturday evening, of course was the inspection at the Naval Air Station—followed by a reception to honor Rear Adm. D. V. Gallery, USN, and Brig. Gen. F. H. Lamson-Scribner, USMC.

But preceding the inspection there was a dinner to honor Adm. Gallery, and Gen. Lamson-Scribner at Hotel Cornhusker, for which Capt. and Mrs. V. W. Randecker, USN;

La Joie De Vie Meets Tuesday

Mrs. Lu Lorton will be hostess to the members of La Joie De Vie when the group meets for a 7 o'clock dessert supper, Tuesday evening, at the Hotel Cornhusker. The evening hours will be devoted to cards.

New president of the organization is Miss Gertrude Hauschildt and other officers are Mrs. Torrence Van Andel, vice president; Mrs. I. R. Dana, treasurer; and Mrs. Bill Sallee, secretary.

of Chris Remmers, son of Mrs. Mabel Remmers, also of Pickrell. The 7 o'clock service was solemnized by the Rev. Mr. Hieronymus.

As the wedding guests assembled, Miss Anita Busboom sang accompanied by Riender Andreesen, organist, who also played the wedding music.

Wearing alike frocks of white nylon net over taffeta completed by brief jackets of lace, were Miss Dorothy Schuster of Lincoln, the maid of honor, and the flower girls, Miss Bonnie Remmers and Miss Janice Bauman, nieces of the bridegroom. Miss Schuster carried a nosegay of pink carnations, and the flower girls' bouquets were of blue-tinted carnations.

Thees Busboom served as best man, and the ushers were Norman Remmers of Adams and Ehme Gronwald of Pickrell.

The bride appeared in a gown of white nylon lace and tulle over satin. The portrait neckline and long sleeves of the bodice were edged with narrow folds of the tulle, and the lace extended into the full tulle skirt to form a modified peplum tapering at the back into a brief train. Her illusion veil was held by a pearl-trimmed cap of lace, and she carried a white Bible ornamented with pink rosebuds.

Mr. Remmers, a veteran of two years' service with the armed forces, and his bride will make their home on a farm near Filley.

Lt. Colonel and Mrs. H. B. Calahan, USMC, and Cmdr. J. R. Thomson, executive officer at the Naval Air Station, and Mrs. Thomson were hosts and hostesses. Among the small group of guests were Chief Justice Robert G. Simmons, Col. E. R. West of Glenview, Ill., and Capt. and Mrs. W. O. Gallery.

AND just in case you have wondered—as did we—about the two Galleries—they are brothers.

ON Sunday, the wives of the Marine Corps Air Reserve officers will be hostesses at a luncheon at Hotel Cornhusker when they entertain in courtesy to the wives of visiting out of town officers. Luncheon places will be arranged for 18.

WE'RE just beginning a week that will leave Miss Shirley Sides with a minimum amount of leisure time since every day is courtesy day on her calendar.

The week's series for Miss Sides, whose marriage to Thomas Bowman of Denver will be solemnized on June 19, begins today when Mrs. Ellery Davis, Mrs. Wayne Pringle and Mrs. Gilbert Hanson are hostesses at a 1 o'clock luncheon at the University Club.

TUESDAY'S party for the bride-elect is the mother-daughter luncheon for which Mrs. Clarence Swanson, her daughter, Miss Kathryn Swanson; Mrs. Lyle Holland and her daughter, Mrs. Donald Bloom, will be hostesses when they entertain at the Lincoln Country Club. The soon-to-be bride will be presented with a pottery shower.

THEN comes Wednesday—and another courtesy for Miss Sides. Mrs. Norman Carlson has invited a guest eight some for dinner at the Lincoln Country Club on Wednesday, and the group will include some of the current golf and fish widows.

WHEN Mrs. Blanchard Anderson entertains at a 10 o'clock coffee on Thursday morning, the party will be in prenutial courtesy to Miss Sides who is to be given a handkerchief shower—

And on Thursday evening the bride-elect will again be an honoree when Mrs. C. Robert Fulton and her daughter, Miss Sarah Fulton are hostesses at a 7 o'clock supper at their home.

MISS Sides will be complimented on Saturday by Mrs. Philip Aitken and her daughter, Miss Jean Aitken, who have invited guests for a mother-daughter luncheon at the Lincoln Country Club.

Last Friday Miss Sides was the incentive for a morning coffee for which Mrs. Charles Stuart was hostess at her home, and to which only members of the families were invited.

SOMEONE told us that Mrs. Max Roper and her son, Bill, took off for California the other day—and will spend a month as the guests of Mrs. Roper's mother, Mrs. L. H. Arensburg at Temple City.

MRS. TED C. CANNON

Lighted white candles in pedestal candelabra, and tall arrangements of white gladioli and chrysanthemums, appointed the chancel of the First Methodist Church at Creston, Ia., Saturday afternoon, May 22, for the marriage of Miss Mary Lou Keating, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Keating of Creston, and Lt. Ted C. Cannon, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Cannon of Mitchell. In the presence of 300 guests, the Rev. Myron E. Hayes of Ottumwa, Ia., read the lines of the 3 o'clock service.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Reed Kline presented a prelude of organ music and accompanied Jack Chedester of Omaha, vocalist, Mrs. Kline also played the wedding music.

Miss Martha Sue Keating of Creston was her sister's maid of honor and was frocked in jonquil yellow net over taffeta fashioned with a shirred, strapless bodice and full, waist-length skirt. A bandeau of pale green satin held her net noseveil, and she carried a crescent of yellow daisies. Costumed in pastel green and yellow net were the flower girls, Miss Teri Markin and Miss Tina Markin, cousins of the bride.

The bride's gown of white imported Chantilly lace over satin was designed in the danseuse length. A snug, long-sleeved jacket covered the low décolletage of the bodice, and the skirt was caught into fullness and worn over hoops. Satin petals embroidered with seed pearls formed the small cap which held her veil of illusion, and she carried a white Bible marked with a single white orchid and showered with Stephanotis.

Serving his brother as best man was William Cannon of Mitchell, and the ushers were Jack Paap of Oteo, William Karrer, McCook, Leo Geier of Lincoln, and Lt. Robert Gangel of Nebraska City.

A reception was held in the church parlors after which the couple left for a trip to Colorado. They will make their home in Omaha where Lt. Cannon is stationed with the Air Force.

The bride will graduate in June from the University of Nebraska and also will receive her degree from the University of Nebraska school of nursing. She is a member of Alpha Phi sorority. Lt. Cannon is a graduate of the University of Nebraska and a member of Phi Gamma Delta.

Plans Meeting

The members of the Circle Theater board will hold a luncheon meeting today at Hotel Cornhusker. In addition to discussion of plans for the coming season the group will name new officers, and will introduce the new board members including Mrs. Ted Liggett, Mrs. Robert Lee, Mrs. Don Martin and Mrs. Larry Quate.

Plan College View Reunion

Members of the committee making plans for the June reunion of the College View High School alumni combined pleasure with business Friday evening when they met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Henderson for a barbecue supper on the terrace.

Committee members, from left to right, are Mrs. Leroy Henderson, Mrs. Merle Lyon,

Mr. Lyon, Mr. Henderson, Miss Ina Belle Groth, Mrs. Lowell Howey and Mrs. Florence Weeden. Mr. Lyon is chairman of the committee, which also includes Mrs. Julius Humann. The reunion will be held on June 19 and 20, and all alumni of the school from 1917 to the present, are urged to attend.

Americans' Letters To Editors Give Conflicting Views Of McCarthy

Newspapers Get Strong Pro Or Con Opinions, With Little Middle Ground

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Joe McCarthy "makes my blood boil."
"Joe must go—to the White House."
Across the land, such are the conflicting views of thousands of Americans in letters to newspapers.

Most of their comment on the televised Army-McCarthy hearings centers personally on Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy.
Opinions are strongly pro or con, with little middle ground. To one letter writer in Des Moines, Ia., McCarthy "reminds a person of a Roman dictator and his henchmen sitting beside him."

100 More
Another, in Minneapolis, says "what we need is 100 more McCarthys in Washington."
The Associated Press asked a cross-section of newspapers from coast-to-coast whether the preponderance of letters they received during the first weeks of the hearings was for or against McCarthy.

Sixty-one papers were checked. Of these 25 reported receiving a majority favorable to McCarthy; 19 said the majority was anti-McCarthy; and 17 said the letters ran about 50-50.
One newspaper which declined to participate said it believed there was an inspired letter writing campaign on behalf of McCarthy.

About 50-50
In the senator's home state of Wisconsin, the anti-McCarthy Milwaukee Journal said the majority of its letters from within the state were pro-McCarthy, but that letters received from outside Wisconsin make the count 50-50.
It added, however, that "it is impossible to make any kind of accurate estimate since some of McCarthy's vociferous supporters write often, keeping up an individual barrage."

The Providence R. I. Sunday Journal conducted a poll of its readers and said the results indicated:
"1. Neutrality about the senator has all but disappeared; and
"2. While the senator had increased his supporters slightly, those who now disapprove of him have increased greatly."

The Journal said the replies before the hearings approved McCarthy 2,670 (36.3 per cent); while now 2,923 (39.7 per cent) approved; Disapproved McCarthy 2,969 (40.3) while now 4,418 (60.0) disapproved; Indifferent 1,726 (23.4) while now 24 (0.3) indifferent.

In most instances, the preponderance of letter writing sentiment was in line with the newspaper's editorial policy on the topic.

The New York Daily News, friendly to McCarthy, reported that it received about 300 letters a week on the controversy and that they favored McCarthy 20 to 1.

The New York Post, outspokenly anti-McCarthy, said it received about 250 letters on the topic with only 12 favoring McCarthy, a ratio of more than 20 to 1 against him.

The New York World-Telegram & Sun, which has been critical of McCarthy, received "at least 300 letters a week" on the topic and reported them about 3 to 2 for McCarthy.

A number of letters, regardless of whether they take a stand for or against McCarthy, criticize the hearings generally and some suggest they be called off.

But television stations report they are swamped with affirmative replies when they ask their viewers whether they want the hearings. The ABC network, which has been carrying them "live," said a survey May 7 estimated the viewing audience at 9,200,000.

POSTCARD

At the elegant Palacio Hotel in Estoril, the Portugal sun comes through the balconied French windows early in the morning and the birds set up a respectfully subdued chatter in the date palms.

It looks a good deal like Santa Barbara. A layer of barbed wire and a layer of pink geraniums rise to a white-washed, tile-roofed houses. The boulevard edges a crescent of Atlantic beach.

The sand boxes beside the elevators are freshly stenciled with blue sand: "Ealacio, Estoril."

This is the suburban home of ex-kings. The retreat of wealthy British refugees from socialized medicine. Assorted character types from the Levant and former international spies who lived here during the war on expense accounts.

The sun is warm, prices are low. The Portuguese escudo is hard currency and Dr. Oliveira Salazar has been firm in the political saddle these 26 years.

In his full-floor residence in Lisbon's plush Aviz Hotel, the richest man in the world takes his breakfast.

Mr. Gulbaniak is rich in Armenian oil but poor in health. His diet is simple enough to be within reach of the $15-a-month sweeper.

In the afternoon, you can see his 60-year-old son riding in the Rolls Royce town car with a fresh orchid in his buttonhole.

The American colony rises and goes to work in Chevrolets.

"Because they got started here and now you can get them serviced anywhere."

King Umberto of Italy and the Count of Paris, pretender to the French throne, and Don Juan, Count of Barcelona and heir to Spanish royal claims, all live in Estoril.

In the morning, ex-royalty, British and American tourists, head for the beaches.

They rent cabanas and towels from the beach boys. Men must wear tops. And women are allowed only one-piece bathing suits with a skirt in Portugal.

To enforce this, the Navy puts out a beach patrolman, the "cabo d'mar."

The beach boys in turn have hired a lookout. When the cabo d'mar is on the prowl, he comes screaming down the beach. Then royalty and tourists hustle into their cabanas. Or put on shirts and towels.

The fine is about $20. Like all fines in Portugal, it is collected then and there. You are given a receipt. Just like jaywalking in Lisbon which costs you 9 cents, paid on the spot to the cop.

In the late afternoon, the ladies hold teas in the highest fashion of silks and satins.

The cocktail hour starts about 7:30. The Palacio's bar and terrace are very fashionable.

"Over there, the richest Portuguese. At that table, a Belgian baron. She's a White Russian, the one with the bullfighter hat. That one was a German agent during the war, so they say."

The martinis are the best in Europe. They come in iced glasses crested with a blue-and-red "HP."

The waiters snap cigarette lighters, licensed by the government. All lighters are licensed $1.50 a year. A $20 fine if you fail to do so.

About 10:30, dinner begins at the Estoril Casino up the street

There is dinner music and dinner for four with wines and brandies comes to $10.

You register to get in the gambling casino. No minors. No police nor military. No persons in the Finance department of the Government or paymasters are allowed.

The inside is hushed like a public library. Long whippy rakes drag chips silently from the felt roulette tables. Coffee is served on little tables beside the players. A tiny bell like a dinner bell rings once in a while at the French bank table.

Any speech above a whisper draws a stare. The lowest chip is 18 cents. There is a bar. A few unescorted ladies can be persuaded to have a drink with you.

About 4 in the morning, the ex-captains and ex-kings depart. The sun edges over the date palms and the birds sing for them.

Young, White Both Sure Of Control In Central Race

NEW YORK (INS)—The chief contenders in the "bottle of the century" expressed confidence Sunday night in the outcome of the fight for control of the New York Central Railroad.

Central President William White and financier Robert R. Young, who is trying to gain control from White, were guests on the NEC-TV program "Meet The Press."

Shareholders are scheduled to meet in Albany, N. Y., Wednesday to decide outcome of the proxy fight.

White, asked whether he could win, replied, with a definite "Oh, yes."

He said the present management has received proxies from more than 60 per cent of the shareholders, but refused to estimate the amount of shares such support represented.

Young said: "We're going to have enough shares to win on Wednesday. I am confident of that. That's based on sound statistics."

Young said he did not need the 800,000 shares bought for his side by Texas friends. The right to vote these shares for Young has been challenged by his opponents.

Moscow Press Mum On Segregation Ruling

MOSCOW (AP)—It has been six days since the Supreme Court of the United States struck down segregation in the public schools but the Soviet press—which frequently assails race discrimination in America—has not mentioned the ruling.

"I fell off Morton's garage roof, but I was lucky... Morton caught me by my sweater sleeve!"

No Surgery Set Now For Godfrey

BOSTON (AP)—The bone specialist who helped operate on Arthur Godfrey's hip last year said Sunday night no further surgery is planned for at least three months.

Dr. Otto Aufranc and Dr. Joseph Barr made a detailed examination of the radio-TV star who flew to Boston Sunday in his own plane.

"It was felt that more time should be given for corrective exercises and training in walking with the use of crutches," Dr. Aufranc said.

He reported "an almost normal range of motion in the operated hip."

For this reason it is important to allow adequate time for muscle rehabilitation and walking habits, the doctor said.

The possibility of another operation was discussed, he said, "but no surgery is contemplated now."

LHS Teacher C. H. Gausman Awarded $6,000 Fellowship

Chester H. Gausman of 5745 Cleveland, industrial arts teacher at Lincoln High School, has been awarded a $6,000 fellowship from the Fund for the Advancement of Education (established by the Ford Foundation).

The Fund granted 274 fellowships to high school teachers in the U.S., Guam, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands for the 1954-55 academic year. The grants total approximately $1,480,000.

Gausman, who has taught in Lincoln for the past six years, will use his fellowship in completing his study on industrial arts and vocational education in school systems and business. He will also take advanced study at the University of Wyoming.

Before coming to Lincoln, Gausman was superintendent of schools in Garland and principal of the Torrington, Wyo., school. He is a University of Nebraska graduate and received his master's degree from the University of Wyoming.

Rain Ends Chiefs' Home Stand; Wichita Is Next

By RON GIBSON
Star Sports Staff Member

Rain ended the Lincoln Chiefs' current home stand on a glum note Sunday, forcing postponement of a scheduled afternoon game with Des Moines.

The game, which was to end a long home stand, would have been the rubber contest of a three-game series with the Bruins. Despite threatening skies early Sunday, a fair crowd was in prospect and the Chiefs' attendance for the home stand probably would have gone over 20,000.

As it was, Lincoln ended the 15-game stand (interrupted by a two-day trip to Omaha) with a total home attendance of 27,486. The Chiefs drew 19,299 of that total on the stand just completed, which included 12 dates. Three doubleheaders were played.

Top single game attendance was the 2,823 crowd drawn by Lincoln and Denver in the second game of their four-game series.

State Tourney—3 Champs Seek Repeat In Baseball

By BILL FITZGERALD
Star Sports Staff Member

Three teams which won state high school baseball championships last spring will return to the University of Nebraska ball park today and Tuesday to defend those titles.

Little Millard, long a name among the baseball schools of the state, will be tested first in an 11:15 game this morning when Loomis comes in from Phelps County to bid for the Class D championship.

Boys Town and Omaha Holy Name will meet the Class A and Class B fields tomorrow.

Four games will be played Monday, four Tuesday and four Wednesday when the finals are scheduled in all classes.

Millard will come into the tournament without the leader who directed the Indians to the championship in 1953. Ray Jenkins, the man who developed the Millard baseball tradition of sound clubs, has gone into sporting goods sales, but he handed the team to a former pupil who will be on familiar land in the campus field.

Dick Todd, the fellow who used to pitch for Jenkins' Millard clubs, took over the eastern Nebraska school in mid-year, brought it to the state basketball finals and now will shoot for his own title in the ball park where he once threw for the Cornhuskers while a Nebraska student following the second war.

Millard will go without Bob Dreesen, the boy who pitched a no hit, no run game in the 1953 finals and beat Oakland, 10-0.

St. Ludgers of Creighton and Filley will open the Monday play in Class D at 9:30.

Orchard takes on St. Francis of Humphrey at 1:30 p.m. and Clarks plays Sterling at 3:15 in the Class C games today. Only this class has no defending champion in the tournament.

Boys Town comes back to try for a second title but has no Wayne Zroka to throw against Northeast, Lincoln and Omaha Cathedral, the other contenders.

Zroka is the boy who pitched both Cowboy games last spring. He beat Columbus, 2-0, and Lincoln, 2-1. The one run was unearned.

But Zroka was a senior so the West Dodge school must come up with another good pitcher if Boys Town is to repeat.

Northeast, the Cowboy opponent at 1:30 Tuesday, is new to baseball but has improved considerably through the spring.

Lincoln is the favorite because of hitting strength and pitching depth. The Links play Omaha Cathedral at 3:15 Tuesday.

Holy Name has John Putnam back, and he was big enough to stop two opponents on one-hitters in 1953. The Ramblers are favored to repeat. They play Hebron at 11:15 following the Wisner-Columbus St. Bonaventure opener at 9:30.

Weather Cuts Field At British Open

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (AP)—Big puddles of water, the aftermath of 36 hours of rain and cold, spotted Muirfield golf course Sunday where 35 Americans will try to win back the British Amateur championship.

The 59th British Championship, a fast reducing field of 286 entries. Nineteen golfers already have withdrawn, including five challengers from the United States.

Unusually susceptible to weather, the 6,806-yard course has been exposed to several complete and sudden changes in weather along this eastern Scottish coast 25 miles from Edinburgh. Most of the course is only a few feet above sea level, and an unusual high tide in place in the fourth hole flooded two holes, No. 5 and No. 12.

Despite the fickle weather, which calls for altered golf tactics, the Americans still are favored by 5-2 odds to come up with the champion. Americans have won five British amateurs since world war II.

With the par 36-36-72 course well logged, however, it would be such long hitters as Duane Link, Carr, the defending champion, could have the advantage.

Last Saturday night's draw of 2,361 was second high. The attendance went over 2,000 four times.

While the Chiefs were doing well at the gate, they were also playing championship ball. Whitey Wietelmann's gang finished the stand with a 10-5 record, winning four series and splitting two. The Chiefs swept a three-game set with Pueblo.

They also finished their stay at Sherman Field in first place in the Western League standings—a position they have occupied since May 4.

However, they saw their lead cut to a single game Sunday night as Denver beat Sioux City, 4-2. Denver faces a three-game series with Des Moines.

The Chiefs now begin a nine-game tour through the west.

Andy Bush (6-1), the league's leading pitcher, will be on the mound tonight as the Chiefs open a three-game series at Wichita. Following the set-to with the Indians, they move to Pueblo for three and wind up the trip with three at Colorado Springs.

June 1 is an open date and June 2 the Chiefs return to Sherman Field for a 13-game stand against Wichita, Pueblo, Colorado Springs and Omaha.

Bears Gain Half Game On Chiefs

DENVER (AP)—Outfielders Rocco Ippolito and Bobby Prescott and lefty Bill Lathrop batted and pitched the Denver Bears to a 4-2 win Sunday night that knocked Sioux City out of third place.

By taking the loss the Soos dropped five percentage points below Omaha, which was rained out in a game at Wichita. The Bears moved within one game of pacesetter Lincoln, which also was caught by bad weather.

Soos also lost at Denver, 4-3, Sunday. The Bears' record now is 11-10. The Sox are 11-10. The Bears' record now is 11-10. The Bears' record now is 11-10.

Altitude Spoils Santee's Final Loop Bid

By NORRIS ANDERSON
Sports Editor, The Star

BOULDER, Colo.—Did the mile-high altitude and so called "rarefied" air affect Kansas' Santee's bid for a new mile record in the 26th annual Big Seven Outdoor Track and Field Meet here Saturday?

Santee whose 4:13 mile here was far shy of his record of 4:06.3, said the high altitude did not seem to affect his breathing. "It felt like I was running anywhere else," he commented. "The wind bothered a little but I couldn't notice any difference in my breathing."

It was noted, however, that Santee withdrew from the 880 after seeing a preliminary record of 1:51.8 Friday.

"I wanted Lloyd Koby (a senior teammate) to get at least one chance for a Big Seven championship," the Santee explained in between signing autographs. The small fry swarmed him throughout the meet. Koby won the 880 finale in 1:53.5.

Kansas also withdrew from the mile relay finals because "several of the boys felt tired" according to Coach Bill Easton.

The Jays had already amassed 134 points near Missouri's record of 143 and hardly needed the relay victory.

The altitude did not seem to affect the other three records including 47.9 in the quarter-mile by Kansas Football Speedster Frank Cindrich.

White Sox Turn To Red Sox For Help At Third, Get Kell

DETROIT (AP)—The Chicago White Sox, actively seeking their first pennant since 1919, Sunday acquired veteran Third Baseman George Kell in a trade with the Boston Red Sox. The White Sox gave up infielder Grady Hatton and a "very, very substantial sum of cash."

Announcement of the deal was made by General Manager Frank Lane, whose White Sox completed a three-game sweep of the Detroit Tigers Sunday.

The 31-year-old Kell, bothered by an ailing back in recent years, will join the White Sox in Chicago Tuesday in time for a night game with the league-leading Cleveland Indians.

Kell previously had played with the Philadelphia Athletics and the Tigers. He was traded to Boston in a big eight-player deal June 3, 1952.

In his last eight seasons, Kell has been a steady .300 hitter—leading the league in 1949 with a .343 average.

In New York, Boston General Manager Joe Cronin said the Red Sox had received "a considerable amount of money" for Kell.

"The offer was so good," Cronin said, "that we couldn't turn it down. For a change the money comes to Tom Yawkey instead of him giving it up."

The trade came as a complete surprise to Kell, who, incidentally, collected three hits and drove in three runs in Boston's 10-9 triumph over the Yankees Sunday.

"The first I heard about it," said Kell, "was after I had come back to the clubhouse at the end of the game."

The veteran Third sacker, who currently is hitting .258, made no pretense of hiding his disappointment in leaving Boston.

"You never really get used to being traded," he said whimsically. "However, I'm glad I'm going to a team like the White Sox. They must have a pretty good club. They're in second place. If they think I can help them, that's fine. I hope so."

Kell said he was flying to Boston immediately and then take his family to his home in Swifton, Ark. They will travel by car which means he probably won't join his new team in Chicago until Wednesday.

Red Sox Manager Lou Boudreau said he planned to use Billy Goodman, his utility star, at third base in place of Kell. Sophomores Milt Bolling and Ted Lepcio would continue at short and second base, respectively.

Boudreau added that Hatton would be used strictly as a utility man and pinch hitter.

Lane, baseball's most trade-minded general manager, said: "We have been happy with the play of Cass Michaels at third base this season but could not pass up the opportunity to add one of the game's top stars to the White Sox roster. Kell, who carried a .311 lifetime batting average into the 1954 season, will give us more right-handed hitting and excellent defense at third base."

Since Nov. 10, 1948, Lane has completed 196 player transactions involving 277 players.

Kell, in addition to leading the league in hitting in 1949, lists among his achievements 218 hits in 1950 and 191 hits in 1951. Both were top league figures.

On the other hand, Head Coach Buddy Parker of the World Champion Detroit Lions has announced that he will demand that the College Stars play according to professional rules of unlimited substitution.

White Sox manager Paul Richards, who employed seven pitchers Saturday, used four Sunday, with the second—Sandy Consuegra—gaining credit for his third victory against the Sox.

Chicago Homers Aid Sweep; Boston Uses 18-Hit Attack To Beat Champs

By JOE FALLS
DETROIT (AP)—The Chicago White Sox, silenced for seven innings by Steve Gromek, erupted in the eighth for three home runs —by Minnie Minoso, Cass Michaels and Sherman Lollar — to complete a three-game sweep over the Detroit Tigers, 4-3, Sunday.

Minoso, who beat the Tigers with a three-run homer Saturday, put the White Sox into a 2-1 lead when he hit his seventh home run following an inning-opening single by Nellie Fox.

Gromek, seeking to become the major league's first eighth-game winner, then retired Ferris Fain on a fly ball, but Michaels and Lollar hit successive home runs. That finished the Tigers' 33-year-old righthander and he left the mound with his second setback against seven wins.

Gromek has yielded 10 home runs this season.

White Sox manager Paul Richards, who employed seven pitchers Saturday, used four Sunday, with the second—Sandy Consuegra—gaining credit for his third victory against the Sox.

Trucks, was nicked for a run in the opening inning, on a single by Harvey Kuenn, a sacrifice and another single by Ray Boone, and the 1-0 score stood up until the explosive eighth.

After Chicago went ahead 4-1 in the eighth, Detroit bounced back and scored twice on singles by Bill Tuttle, Frank House, pinchhitter Fred Hatfield and Frank Bolling. But the rally lost most of its momentum when Kuenn hit into a crucial double play following three straight singles.

The Huskers picked up 32 points in the field events but could get only a pair of sixths on the track. One of the sixths was in the relay and was accomplished because with Kansas withdrawn only six teams were running. Charley Gibson was sixth in the 440.

Nebraska's brightest showing was Phil Heidicks' leap of 6 feet 4 1/4 inches which tied him for first place.

Jim Hofstetter cleared 13 feet 4 inches, his best competitive showing for second place in the pole vault. Ken Reinert's toss of 50 feet 6 1/4 inches stood up for second in the shot putt.

Chiff Dale was fifth in the shot (47-1/2) and fourth in the disc (144-8 1/2). Merle Brestal was fifth in the high jump and Charley Hunley was fifth in the javelin.

Dale and Heidicks are seniors who means the Huskers will have to rebuild their field event forces as well as the track side.

Husker runners were in last place in four of the running events.

We have a lot of building to do on the track, admits Coach Ed Weir. You can't make a good showing by concentrating your points on the field events.

Field Trial Honors To Omaha Dogs

Eaton's Tank and Bob's Speed, black Labrador dogs owned by H. D. Marshall of Omaha and handled by Bob Howard, finished one-two in the open stakes of the Nebraska Dog and Hunt Club's American Kennel Club-sanctioned retriever trials at the club grounds Sunday.

Jerry of Stonethrow, a black Labrador owned and handled by Bernard Stone of Omaha, won the derby stakes. Tops in the qualifying was Spider, a black Labrador, also handled by Howard. Results:

Negro Leaders See Delay In Ending School Segregation In Eight Areas

Court Action Is Possible

ATLANTA, Ga. (INS)—Negro leaders predict little delay in ending school segregation in the District of Columbia and seven states of the 17 where separate schools were maintained. They expect to complete this week the first step of an integration program mapped by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. This is to petition local school boards "to abolish segregation without delay and assist these agencies in working out ways and means of implementing" the U.S. Supreme Court's ban on school segregation.

NAACP leaders completed a two-day conference in Atlanta and chief legal counsel Turgood Marshall said no delay in ending dual school systems is expected in the District of Columbia, Maryland, Kentucky, Delaware, West Virginia, Oklahoma, Missouri, Arkansas and "possibly Texas."

As for the other 10 states, he said the group is prepared to press—through court action, if necessary—for an end to separate schools "in a reasonable time."

Marshall, who successfully argued the case for racial integration in public schools before the Supreme Court, said he considers that the ruling repeals all laws which have set up school segregation.

He emphasized that many areas will need a "reasonable time to work out details" of integration. Marshall added: "If any attempts are made by some people to directly circumvent the decision, they'll be in court by the end of the week."

Regarding Georgia Gov. Herman Talmadge's declaration to keep schools segregated, possibly by a "private school" system, Walter White, NAACP executive secretary, read a prepared statement:

Into Red Hands

"An interpretation to the federal Constitution by the Supreme Court is the law. Any high public official (or low one either) who defies a decision of the highest tribunal of the land proves unfaithful to the law he has sworn to uphold and plays directly into the hands of Communist propaganda."

White attacked Gov. Herman Talmadge of Georgia and Gov. James Byrnes of South Carolina for their pro-segregation views.

The executive secretary told the Atlanta conference the two are a "menace to democracy and freedom."

"Talmadge and Byrnes and a few others will undoubtedly use every trick in the bag to circumvent the Supreme Court's decision. But I assert confidently, they will be beaten as they have been defeated in the past," White said.

The Associated reported Talmadge declined to comment specifically on the NAACP plans, but he issued this statement: "The people of Georgia will know my views. As long as I'm governor of Georgia there will be no mixed schools. I am not interested in pleasing Communists at home or abroad."

Rites Pending For Moeller, Crash Victim

Services are pending for Forest W. Moeller, 54, Lincoln city purchasing agent who died Saturday when his car plunged off Highway 31 at the southwest edge of Omaha, struck a culvert and overturned into a ditch.

He was dead on arrival at an Omaha hospital. His wife, Eula, 54, suffered bruises and a broken rib. Her physician said Sunday night she was "resting comfortably" at Lincoln General Hospital.

Mr. Moeller, a city employee 26 years, first was a bookkeeper in the clerk's office and later became deputy city clerk and auditor.

He had been city purchasing agent since the position was set up in 1939.

Born in Lincoln, he had lived here all his life. He belonged to St. Paul Methodist Church.

Mr. Moeller was organizer and past president of the City Employees Association.

Manager and player on a city team in the Twilight Baseball League, he also was active in bowling circles.

Surviving are his wife; a daughter, Donna June Reese of Eagle; son, James of Lincoln; four grandchildren and a brother, Frank of Lincoln.
